Since joining Louis Berger, Brad's primary focus has been on large-scale linear infrastructure projects throughout the country. His experience includes co-managing a team of 40 to permit and design hundreds of miles of urban, underground fiber optic networks. He has also led public outreach efforts for a 780-mile interstate electric transmission line, including planning and facilitating dozens of large-scale public meetings throughout the Midwest. In addition, he has gained experience in electric transmission line planning, including route analysis and research, environmental impact analyses, threatened and endangered species consultation, public outreach, route selection reports, feasibility studies, and utility commission applications.

Brad has been an active member of the American Planning Association since 2009. Recently, Brad joined the Downtown Neighborhood Association's Planning and Development Committee in an effort to help build upon the momentum and growth of downtown Kansas City in a manner that benefits all who live, work, and play in the area.

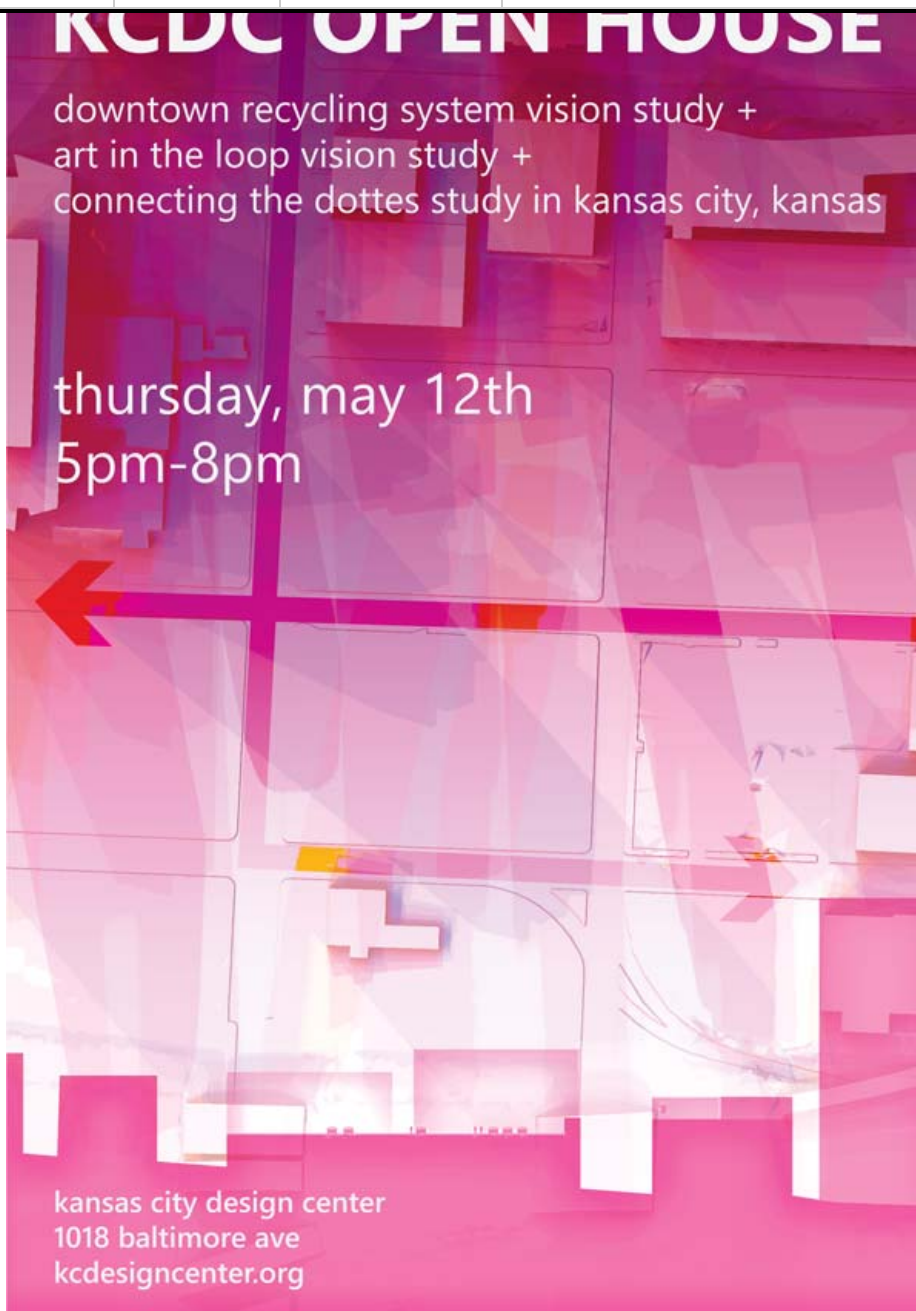

Fun Fact: Brad is an avid photographer and loves exploring new places. But, what he enjoys even more is discovering new perspectives to ordinary places.
